

REVISION OF TRLN LICENSING PRINCIPLES AND GUIDELINES

Maria Collins

Head of Acquisitions & Discovery, NCSU

Chair, Electronic Resources Committee, TRLN

Overview

- Background for TRLN and Licensing Principles
- Pressure points influencing change
- Review of latest revisions to principles
- How these latest revisions are applied at the local institutional level

Triangle Research Libraries Network (TRLN) - Background

- Regional Consortium
- Membership: UNC-CH, Duke, NCCU, NCSU
- Collaborative collection building, licensing,
- Role of TRLN Electronic Resources Committee

Principled Licensing

- Flexibility to manage collections
- Control over costs and subscriptions
- Fair use rights, archival access
- Summary of benefits

Pressure points

- Ebooks: Beyond Print
- Evolution in scholarly communication – Open Access
- Realizing the benefits of electronic

Revisions: Ebooks

- Purchasing model language for ebooks
- Pricing principles for new editions
- Ability to choose from publisher-supported platforms for delivery of content
- Consistent across publisher-supported platforms

Revisions: Use of content

- Scholarly sharing language
- Language about non-commercial academic use for all materials
- Privacy restrictions

Revisions: Advantages of 'E' – Re-conceptualizing acceptable use

- DRM-free and downloading to mobile devices
- Text-mining
- Retaining e-access while materials are on loan

Revisions: Open Access

The right to post to IRs

Author pays language (preventing double-dipping)

Revision: Management data

- Language requiring the provision of clear title lists
- Sharing Usage Data within the consortium
- Added Portico/LOCKSS language (A6)

Where the rubber meets the road...

Questions?

Maria Collins

Maria_Collins@ncsu.edu

919-515-3188